BUENOS AYRES, Feb. 19. - The Rome correspondent of La Nacion says that the Allied raply to Prestdent Wilson's Adriatic memorandum, which contained 4,000 words, is very extansive and sets out to refute the arguments of the President, paragraph by paragraph. It calls attention to the logalty of Raly and places emphasis on the voluntary proposal of Premier Nitti lo concode complete autonomy to Daimatia.

Referring to the alternative to the empromise the application of the must of London-the correspondent doclares that President Wilson opposse this violently, asserting that he unable to take into consideration a secret treaty which in his judgment is "one of the worst examples of iniquitous violation of the rights of small peoples,"

In conclusion, the memorandum says the moment has arrived to speak with entire frankness, and, the correspondent adds, "affirms that the Allies' compromise is in every way incomparable with the principles established by the fourteen points, which the Allies accepted integrally."
